PASTOR RUSSELL'S SERMON

Human and Divine Immortality

All mankind seem, instinctively, to hope for a future life even though with the majority the hope is accompanied with dread respecting its conditions. However, only the Bible reveals a rational basis formainth respecting a future life—a survival of the general death conditions everywhere prevalent. The heathen hope for a future life, but none of them furnish a logical basis for such expectations. Only in the Bible can this be found.

expectations. Only in the Bible can this be found.

The heathen hope is represented by their great philosophers, Socrates and shato. Their hope is, in brief, that, in clew of man's great superiority over the heast, it must be he will have a future, even though to all appearances death means the same to the human as to the brute. The Bible explains that man was indeed created in his Maker's image and likeness and granted the privilege of eternal life on condition of obscience, but that he disobeyed and therefore became subject to death, and that death, the pensity affects him exactly as it does the brute creation. But the Bible does not leave the subject here. It tells of God's pity and love, and of His provision to rescue manking from sin and from death.

Law; but to meet this emergency, Divine Love provided a Redeemer, who died, "the Just for the unjust"; "As by man came dearth, by a Man also comes the resultance of the dead; for as all in Adam die, even so all in Christ shall be made alve; every man in his own order" (I Corinthians xv, 21-23).

Thus God has manifested this character in a way and to a degree which could never have been known to angels or to men had the not permitted ain to enter the world. His Justice has been manifested in the stream of the death penalty upon our race for six thousand vears. Divine Love has been manifested in the strrangement made by which the Only Begotten Son of God, on the heavenly plane counted it Joy to leave His glory and honor and be made flesh and die for our sins. Before the Divine Plan shall be fully consummated, God's Wisdom and Power will also stand fully revealed through His dealing with sin and sinners.

But God will not be hastened. He has a wise as well as gracious purpose. He has a definite time for every feature of His great work. He has allowed four thousand years to pass before He ever seen His Son to begin the work of rearnable of the same of t

The New Creation Divine.

The New Creation Divine.

We have already mentioned the glorious exaltation purposed of God for the new creation. St. Peter tells us that these will attain the divine nature; and this attainment will be through, or by means of, the power of God working in the heart as the result of faith in "the exceeding great and precious promises" (II Peter L. 4). These will not be coerced into obedience—their will be voluntary submission to the divine will. The test upon them will be loyalty and faithfulness to God to the very limit—to the extreme of self-denial, and voluntary humiliation in the service of righteousness, following in the footsteps of Jesus. Indeed, Jesus is the first and the head of this new creation. None could attain it except by and through its aid. He is the captain of their salvation. He is their forerunner in this great "race" to which, with him, they have been invited of God—the reward of which, to the faithful "overcomers," will be "glory, honor and immortality."

As we have seen, the Almighty alone possessed inherent immortality until He gave it as a reward to His glorious Son. The beginning of the creation of God. By and by in the first resurrection, when the cleet 'overcomers' shall enter upon this same plane of immortality, the opportunity to become of this nature will be closed, so far as the Scriptures declare.

The Glory to Come.

Not until the Savior appeared and made his consecration unto death on behalf of the race, was it proper for even him to give such assurances. But after his consecration, during the three and a half years of his ministry, he declared his mission to be the seeking and recovery of that which was lost, and the giving to his footstep followers of a share with himself, not only in the sufferings of this present time, but in the giory to come. Now is the time in which, by holiness, faithfulness, loyalty to God and to the truth, and the laying down of life for the brethren, we may make our "calling and election sure" to the highest imaginable reward—glory, honor and immortality, the divine nature.

"O! for that glorious dawning we watch Till o'er the height the morning light shall drive the gloom away;
And when the heavenly glory shall flood the earth and sky,
We'll bless the Lord for all his works and praise him by and by."

One of the duties of this new committee will be to see that the conduct of Utah life agents in the matter of soliciting business, particularly where competition is involved, shall be absolutely above reproach. It was stated at the meeting referred to that the representatives of certain life companies have of late been sending out circulars making ridiculous and unwarranted comparisons of certain policy forms, the intention undoubtedly being to mislead the prospect for insurance. Just as soon as the new committee is appointed by President Smith, the agents referred to will be cited to appear before it and explain some of their actions.
